Where My Family Lives

My family lives in three places. I live in Tashkent with my parents. Our apartment is small, but it is near a park. The city is noisy and the traffic is bad, but I like it because there is always something to do.

My older brother lives in Samarkand. He works in a hotel and he studies at night. He has a small room and he shares the kitchen with two friends.

My grandparents live in a village near Bukhara. They grow fruit and keep cows. The air is fresh and the life is peaceful. My grandmother cooks every day, and my grandfather always asks the same question: “When do you move to the village?”
