A Day in Three Lives

Let's look at one Tuesday in my family.

My father gets up at six. He has tea and leaves home at seven. He commutes by bus for an hour and arrives at the office at eight. He has a short lunch break at one and finishes work at five. He comes home at six.

My mother is a teacher. She gets up at six too. She cooks breakfast, checks her messages and walks to school. Her lessons start at eight. After school she goes shopping and prepares dinner.

I get up at seven. I have breakfast, pack my bag and leave home at eight. After school I do my homework and talk to my friends online. We all have dinner at seven. Then my father reads the news, my mother tidies up and I go to my room. At eleven I switch off the light and fall asleep.
