1 king [kɪŋ] n. — король
The man who rules a country.
→ This is the king.

2 clothes [kləʊðz] n. — одежда
The things people wear.
→ He loves clothes.

3 tailor [ˈteɪlə] n. — портной
A person who makes clothes.
→ Two tailors are standing in the palace.

4 cloth [klɒθ] n. — ткань
The material that clothes are made of.
→ We make a magic cloth.

5 stupid [ˈstjuːpɪd] adj. — глупый
Not clever.
→ Stupid people see nothing!

6 money [ˈmʌni] n. — деньги
What you pay with.
→ He gives them a lot of money.

7 beautiful [ˈbjuːtɪfl] adj. — красивый
Very nice to look at.
→ Do you see the beautiful flowers?

8 street [striːt] n. — улица
A road in a town with houses on it.
→ The king is walking in the street.

9 point [pɔɪnt] v. — показывать пальцем
To show something with your finger.
→ He points at the king.

10 laugh [lɑːf] v. — смеяться
To make a happy sound with your mouth.
→ Everybody is laughing.

Useful phrases from the story

of course — конечно
Of course the table is empty!
look at — смотреть на
Look at the beautiful flowers!

The King Who Loved Clothes

1

There is a king. He loves clothes. He has a big room for his coats and a big room for his hats.

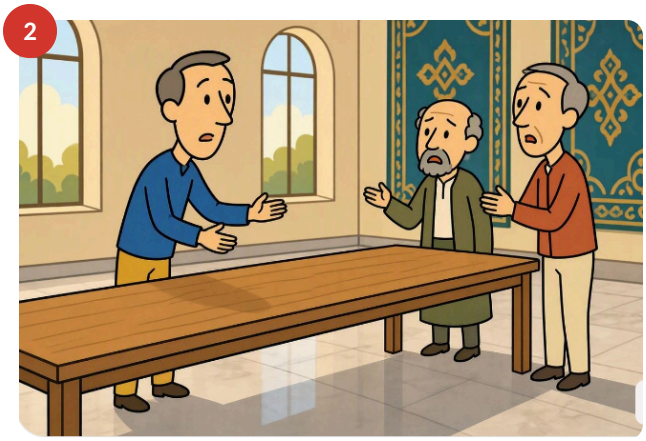

Every day he stands in front of the mirror. He is looking at his new coat now. He is very happy.

Today two tailors are standing in the palace. They have an empty box.

“We make a magic cloth,” they say. “Clever people see it. Stupid people see nothing!”

The king wants that cloth. He gives them a lot of money.

2

Now the two tailors are working every day. But look at the table! It is empty!

The king sends his old man. The old man is looking at the empty table.

“Do you see the beautiful flowers?” the tailors ask.

The old man is afraid. Clever people see the cloth! So he says, “Yes! I see them!”

Every man says the same thing. Nobody wants to be stupid.

3

Now the king is walking in the street. He has no clothes! But nobody says it.

All the people are shouting and waving their hats. “What a beautiful coat!”

A small boy is sitting on his father’s shoulders. He points at the king.

“Look! He has no clothes!” the boy says.

Now everybody is looking. Everybody is laughing.

And the two tailors? They are walking out of the city with a big bag of money.