The Bear Who Chose First

1

This is a bear. He is very big. “This field is my field!” he says.

But he never works in it.

A crow is sitting on a tree. “You can’t eat a field!” she says.

“Somebody must plant something first!”

“Then you work,” the bear says. “We take half each. But I am big. I choose first!”

2

Now the crow is planting seeds.

“Everything on top is mine!” the bear says. “You take the part under the ground.”

Now the field is green. The bear is very happy.

But look! He is pulling up the green leaves. They are dry!

And the crow? She is digging. She has long orange carrots! They are sweet!

3

Now it is spring again.

“This year everything under the ground is mine!” the bear says.

“Are you sure?” the crow asks. “I am sure!”

So now the crow is planting apple trees!

In the summer the trees are red. The bear is digging all day. He finds only hard roots.

The crow is sitting in the tree and she is eating apples.

Now the bear always thinks before he chooses.
