Describing change: tenses, prepositions and trend language

Understand it

Task 1 describes change. Choose the tense from the time on the chart: past years = past simple; up to now = present perfect; future predictions = will / is expected to / is projected to.

Two patterns make your writing varied: verb + adverb (rose sharply) and adjective + noun (a sharp rise). Use both, and always get the preposition right.

The rules

- Past data: past simple. Sales rose in 2010. Use the past perfect only for an earlier past: By 2010, sales had doubled.
- Verbs of change: rise, increase, grow, fall, drop, decline, fluctuate, peak, level off, remain stable.
- Prepositions: rose TO 40% (the final figure), rose BY 10% (the size of change), FROM 20% TO 30%, at a peak OF, reached a low OF.
- Adjective + noun and adverb + verb: a sharp rise = rose sharply; a gradual fall = fell gradually.

All the words and forms you need

Up	rise · increase · grow · climb · go up · rocket · soar
Down	fall · decrease · decline · drop · go down · plummet · dip
No change	remain stable · stay constant · level off · plateau · stabilize
Up and down	fluctuate · vary · be volatile
Highest / lowest	peak at · reach a peak of · hit a low of · bottom out at
Speed and size	sharply · dramatically · steeply · significantly · steadily · gradually · slightly · marginally
Prepositions	to (final level) · by (amount of change) · from ... to ... · at (a point) · of (a peak of) · over (a period)
Future	is expected to · is projected to · is predicted to · will probably

Where you use it

Writing: The overview says the main trend; the detail paragraphs use exact figures with correct prepositions.

Speaking: Part 3: Prices have risen steadily over the last ten years.

Reading: Notice how trend verbs are paraphrased: rise = go up, increase = climb.

More examples

- The number of cars rose steadily from 2000 to 2010.
- There was a sharp drop in sales in March.
- Prices peaked at $40 in 2015 before falling to $25.
- Unemployment has remained stable since 2018.
- Online shopping is projected to double by 2030.
- Coffee consumption fluctuated between 10 and 12 kilos per person.

Common mistakes
