M1 · Unit 16 · I've just … / I've already … / I haven't … yet

Murphy Unit 16 · pp. 42–43

THE BIG IDEA

Just = a moment ago. Already = it is done, earlier than we thought. Yet = until now, in questions and negatives. All go with the present perfect.

Just — «только что», already — «уже», yet — «ещё / уже» (вопрос и отрицание). Все — с present perfect.

How to make the sentence

1. Choose: a moment ago (just), done (already), until now (yet).
2. just / already go between have and the past participle: I've just arrived.
3. yet goes at the END: I haven't finished yet. Have you finished yet?
4. Say it in American style too: Did you finish yet? (also correct in the US)

The pattern

WHICH	PATTERN	EXAMPLE	РУССКИЙ

M2 · Unit 20 · I have done and I did (present perfect and past simple)

Murphy Unit 20 · pp. 50–51

THE BIG IDEA

Use the past simple for a finished time (yesterday, last year, in 2020). Use the present perfect when the time is not finished (today, this week) or when we do not say when.

Past simple — законченное время (вчера). Present perfect — время не закончилось (сегодня, на этой неделе) или время не названо.

How to make the sentence

1. Do you say a finished time (yesterday, ago, last week, in 2020)? → past simple.
2. No finished time, the period is not finished (today, this week, ever)? → present perfect.
3. Questions with When, What time + past simple: When did you arrive?
4. Have you ever ...? is present perfect, but the answer with details is past simple.

The pattern

WHICH	PATTERN	EXAMPLE	РУССКИЙ
Past simple	verb in the past · finished time	I saw him yesterday.	Я видел его вчера.
Present perfect	have / has · past participle (time not finished)	I've seen him today.	Я видел его сегодня.
When?	When · did · base verb?	When did you buy it? (not: When have you bought)	Когда ты это купил?
ever	Have you ever · past participle?	Have you ever been to Spain?	Ты когда-нибудь был в Испании?
Details	present perfect, then past simple	I've been to Spain. I went there in 2022.	Я был в Испании. Я ездил в 2022.

Watch out! We often say...

~~I have seen him yesterday~~	I saw him yesterday
~~When have you arrived?~~	When did you arrive?
