Bobur's Review

Bobur loves writing movie reviews for his school blog. This week he writes about a new fantasy movie. “The movie was really good, but it was too long: almost three hours!” he writes. “The acting was great, but the first half was quite slow.”

“The special effects were extremely good, but the story wasn't believable enough. The ending was a little predictable, too. It is also too violent for small children, so don't take your little brother.”

At the end he gives the movie four stars out of five. “I think it's worth watching,” he writes, “but you'd better bring a snack. And please, next time, make it shorter!” His friends think his reviews are funny and honest. What would you write about your last movie?
