A Town with a Waste Problem

Our town has a problem with waste. Every day the trucks bring tons of trash to the landfill outside the town, and the landfill is almost full. If we don't change anything, it will be full in five years.

Last month the mayor said that unless people recycle more, the city will have to build a new landfill. That will cost a lot of money, and it will damage the nearby fields. “If we act now, we will save both money and nature,” he said.

The students in our school have started a campaign. If every family recycles plastic and paper, the town will produce much less trash. They are visiting every apartment building and explaining how to sort waste. Unless more people join, the campaign won't work, so please help!
