If I Won the Lottery

Sardor sometimes dreams about money. “If I won the lottery,” he says, “I would buy a big house for my parents and a small car for myself. I wouldn't buy a yacht, because I get seasick.”

“I'd also donate some of the money to a charity for children,” he continues. “And if I had a private jet, I would fly to every country in the world, but I wouldn't stay long. I would just take photos and eat the local food.”

His sister Madina laughs. “If I were you, I'd buy a lottery ticket first!” she says. Sardor smiles. “If I had a ticket, I'd have a chance. But a dream costs nothing, and I would never be sad about it.”
